

Figure 14: Well established riparian habitat along the banks of Big Chico Creek just upstream of its confluence with the Sacramento River. This physical location was, some 70 years ago, “river channel,” but subsequent to channel migration and sediment deposition by the creek and the river, this area now supports relatively mature riparian vegetation.